THE 'STYLED' SUITE
MFC

ABOUT THIS PROJECT

The Styled Suite, formerly the Riverside Restaurant, is part of a long-term plan from the club to help bring in new streams of revenue outside of match days, catering to events such as wedding receptions and baby showers.

Styled were thrilled to be given the opportunity to add a new lease of life to the space and created a bright, fresh and modern hospitality suite to fulfil the project brief.

The project had an incredibly tight deadline, just eight weeks from start to finish, so the pressure was on to complete it in time. Being a commercial project, each piece of furniture had to be made bespoke to fit the space and meet set regulations.

To achieve the redesign within the timeframe, the Styled team worked with local companies and subcontractors for the works, including everything from decorating, bespoke joinery, the new bar area and the furniture to create this amazing new space for the club.

SEALPUMP
ENGINEERING OFFICE
STOKESLEY

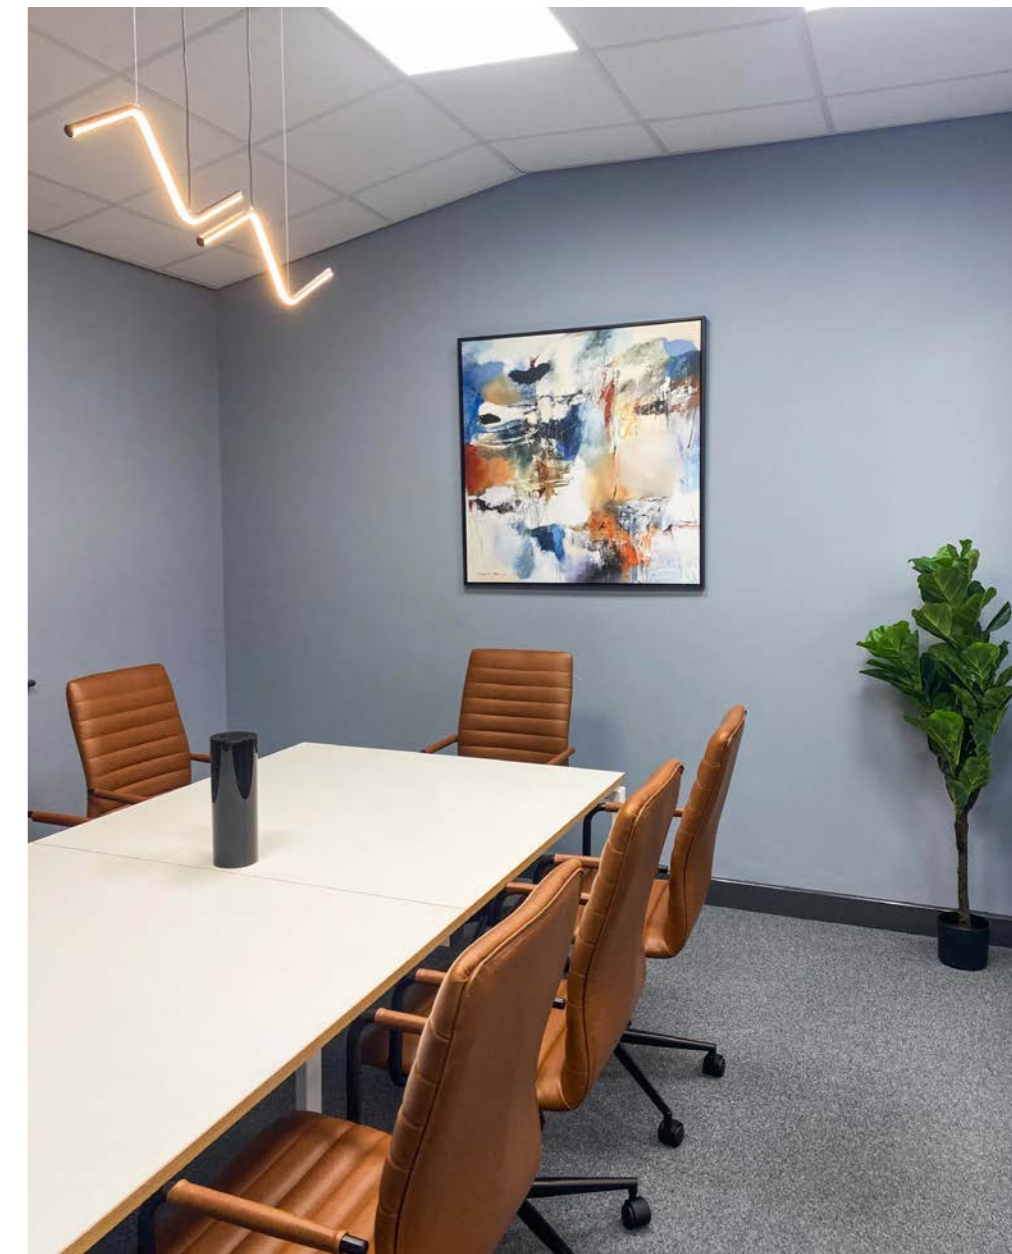

ABOUT THIS PROJECT

Sealpump Engineering sought to bring their business functions into a new office in Stokesley to offer their staff a bright, modern and inviting space to work and entertain clients. The office houses three different businesses under one roof, which had to be reflected within the scheme.

A colour palette consisting of blue hues and tan leather were complimented by accents of black and greenery to create a modern office with a subtle nod to the industrial elements of the businesses. A privacy partition wall in a light oak wood helped zone the large, open plan working space and create a separate reception area that still felt connected to the main space, whilst maintaining an air of privacy and professionalism.

Custom floor-to-ceiling cabinets were also commissioned for the project to offer the client more clever yet subtle storage solutions integrated into the design. Biophilic design was another key element of the scheme to promote staff wellbeing and a positive working environment.

THE BEACH HOUSE
SCARBOROUGH

A newly refurbished hotel in the heart of Scarborough, designed by Styled.

The Beach House, formerly the Ambassador Hotel, is based in the heart of Scarborough - a popular coastal destination in the North East of England. The refurbishment and re-branding of the hotel is part of a long-term plan to help attract younger audiences to the hotel as this holiday destination grows in popularity.

Styled were thrilled to be given the opportunity to add a new lease of life to the space and created a fun, unique and modern range of rooms and communal areas to fulfil the project brief.

Our brief from the client was to create a fun and quirky hotel design that would attract a new audience to Scarborough and help them stand out within a crowded market.

To re-invent the space, we worked with the client on our design concept - a Cali Surf Club style with a fresh and modern edge. We opted for a soft pastel colour palette with quirky design features such as custom neon lights, mural walls and bespoke artwork to reflect the hotel's seaside location.
